REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present claims 1-12 are allowable over the applied art of record for the following reasons:

The prior art of record does not teach or suggest a document revision support program comprising a method for providing document revision support, the method comprising receiving a document to be revised; converting the received document to data presented in a tree structure; storing the converted data as a saved original; receiving an instruction to revise a designated element of the converted data; creating revised data to be stored in said tree structure data, said revised data including the instructed revision to the designated element and a revision ID uniquely representing the instructed revision and an attribute representing a type of the revision made to the designated element as list structure data; saving the revised data; designating a specific revision to be canceled, deleting the revision ID and attribute corresponding to the specific revision and restoring the saved original to thereby cancel the specific revision; and designating a specific revision to be deleted, deleting the revision ID and attribute corresponding to the specific revision as well as the saved original, and reflecting a revision represented by the attribute on the original. Specifically, the prior art of record fails to teach or suggest creating revised data to be stored in said tree structure data, said revised data including the instructed revision to the designated element and a
